Kirk McLean Honourary Chair of CARHA 2023

Kirk McLean, a former Vancouver Canucks for 10-plus years (achieved the Vezina Trophy Finalist recognition as the NHL's top goaltender, named to two NHL all-star games and led the Canucks to a seventh game in the 1994 Stanley Cup finals) has been named 2023 Honourary Chair of the Molson Canadian CARHA Hockey World Cup being held in Richmond, BC, March 19th to March 26th.

"Kirk McLean is a fantastic representation of the Richmond and Vancouver area. He has ties to the area given his long and successful career with the Vancouver Canucks and his philanthropic connections to this community. His enthusiasm for the CARHA Hockey World Cup was evident during our first visit to Richmond in the original bid process. Kirk being involved in the CARHA Hockey World Cup is a unique and exciting opportunity for participants to engage with a former NHL great," says Lori Lopez, Executive Director of the CARHA Hockey World Cup.

"The game of hockey has always brought people together in Canada, so I am excited to be the Honourary Chair of the CARHA Hockey World Cup, an event that manages to do so on an international scale," says McLean, current Ambassador for the Vancouver Canucks. "As someone who has been involved in hockey in this community for a long time, it is easy to imagine the impact it will have on the passionate hockey fans of Richmond and Vancouver, and I look forward to this event capturing the attention and imagination of the community throughout the week of the CARHA Hockey World Cup."

Since his retirement from the NHL, McLean has been heavily involved in the hockey community, also spending time as a goaltending coach, a broadcaster and a part-owner of the Burnaby Express in the British Columbia Hockey League. He's a natural fit for the role of Honourary Chair.

Interviewer Jim Gordon speaks with Lucy Peeling of CARHA Hockey.

By MATTHEW CHEUNG
Reporter

An event that was originally scheduled for March of 2020, the CARHA Hockey World Cup is finally coming to Richmond March 19 to 26. Interviewer Jim Gordon spoke with CARHA's Lucy Peeling manager of special events and programming.

Jim Gordon (JG): Some of our viewers may not know of CARHA Hockey. This is quite an event coming to Richmond, could you give our viewers CARHA's nearly 30-year history?

Lucy Peeling (LP): Absolutely, we've been around since 1975, we were previously COHA, then re-branded as CARHA Hockey World Cup basing it on an Olympic style event held every four years, giving teams the chance to save, because we have a lot of international representation.

JG: This tournament includes 1500 adult recreational hockey players from Canada, the (United) States, Europe, and Asia. Can you explain what the energy will be like with a tournament of this magnitude?

LP: Absolutely, they really enjoy it all. We run an athlete's village throughout the week at our hosts' hotel, entertainment every night, we have an opening and closing ceremony. (There is also a) March of Athletes by country from the hotel to the Oval, so there's so much more to the event. We have a group from Australia coming for the first time.

JG: What does CARHA look for in a city when deciding where to host the (next) event?

LP: We're grateful to all our partners in Richmond, the city, and Richmond Tourism for continuing to work with us, supporting the event, and wanting to bring the CARHA Hockey World Cup to your community. We're very excited for everyone to experience what Richmond has to offer. For us, the facilities are world class, we're looking for cities near airports and extra-curricular activities. There's so much to experience from your dining to outdoor recreation, and there's lots to do within Richmond and nearby.

JG: During your long history, how have you managed to spread the word about this wonderful tournament to places that are not traditionally hockey locations?

LP: We're very lucky (that) over the years we've held onto teams that have participated and return every four years.

Australia is sending teams to 2023 Hockey World Cup

By FLORENCE GORDON
Editor

Ross Fisher was a man on a mission to build Melbourne's newest ice rink that opened in July, 2018. Little did he know how much of an impact it would have on the growth of the game of hockey in Australia.

It took several years to get support for his idea, yet on July 1st, 2018, the ice rink opened to the public. The rink now has its own hockey school, 8 exciting development programs, the Melbourne Ducks team, and a Junior Development squad, Junior Ducks. It is also home to the biggest recreational hockey league in Australia.

In March of 2023, four of his adult recreational hockey teams will travel to Richmond, British Columbia to play in the CARHA Hockey World Cup. Part of planning to build the ice rink and to grow the game in Australia is seeking opportunities to bring players to tournaments around the world. In the past, Ross has arranged trips for players to compete in tournaments in Surrey, San Jose, and even Hawaii. The CARHA Hockey World Cup turn up to compete and it becomes a play-hockey party." Ross claims that the tournament really suits the Australian way of doing things: "We're all for the party and playing some good hockey."

has been on his radar for a few years now (and with) the rescheduling to March of 2023, four teams locked in a spot and a total of 68 people will be traveling to Canada to take part in the largest international adult recreational hockey tournament. "The concept behind the event being once every four years means the opportunity to participate is rare."

Ross and his party are excited about the entire experience. They have arranged several activities beyond competition to make the most of this trip. Bringing the players to an NHL game is on the top of their list. On March 21, 2023, the Vegas Golden Knights will be hosted by the Vancouver Canucks and as Ross quotes, "Section 118 won't know what hit them when we show up!"

The CHWC is an opportunity for people all over the world to come together and share their love of the game. "So many different countries

CARHA Hockey World Cup comes to Richmond

By MATTHEW CHEUNG
Reporter

Known as Mr. Sport, Councillor Bill McNulty sat down with interviewer Jim Gordon to discuss the upcoming CARHA Hockey World Cup event.

Jim Gordon (JG): This is quite an achievement for the City of Richmond. Originally the CARHA Hockey World Cup was supposed to be here in March of 2020.

Bill McNulty (BM): It's fantastic when you get an event that bodes well for the community in many tangible and intangible ways. When I look at the event from an economic point of view, we're talking 10,500 room nights in our hotels and I would think that it would generate revenue in the neighbourhood of $10-12 million for that week.

JG: There will be 1500 participants coming from Canada, the United States, Asia, and Europe (10 countries & 100 teams). You talked about the intangibles of this event, is the city geared for this? Do most people of Richmond know this event is coming?

BM: I think the city can handle it, from the fast-food groups to some of the amenities that players and supporters will visit. Also, the fact that the (teams) are in walking distance to the Oval, people driving by (will wonder) "what's going on?" That's what builds spirit in the community.

Interviewer Jim Gordon sits down with Councillor McNulty to discuss the CARHA Cup.

JG: Richmond won the CARHA bid in 2017, when the city gets an (event of this size), how much of an impact does a competition like this have?

BM: It bodes well for us to utilize the facilities that we already have and will bring something that will radiate within the community. I'm looking forward to not only the dropping of the puck, but the presenting of the challenge trophy at the end. It's truly an international event.
